

Jen Weiss Bio

Jen Weiss is the Energy Efficiency Policy Manager at the Southern Alliance for Clean Energy. In this role, she is a liaison with advocacy organizations, utility regulators, electric utilities and other key energy efficiency stakeholders, focused on providing outreach and technical assistance on issues of importance to the North Carolina clean energy community. In addition to her energy work, Jen has over 13 years of consumer and small business banking experience and holds a Master of Environmental Management degree from Duke University and an MBA from the University of Michigan.